

17 Top Bathroom Trends for 2024, According to Design Pros

Look for playful patterns, textured tiles and moody colors, plus more spa-inspired designs.

BY ALYSSA GAUTIERI

PUBLISHED: DEC 16, 2023 9:00 AM EST

When it comes to bathroom design, function is no longer the sole focus. Designers view the bathroom as an opportunity to infuse modern design elements and showcase a homeowner's personality, as well as incorporate features that prioritize wellness. Even without a full bathroom remodel, there are plenty of ways to refresh your aesthetic and incorporate these designer-approved bathroom trends for 2024 — whether you're upgrading a small bathroom or luxury retreat.

Here, we speak with our favorite interior designers and design experts to share their top predictions for 2024 — and their responses don't disappoint. Their design inspiration runs the gamut, from ideas like playful wallpaper, textured stones and curved fixtures to an overall shift toward health and wellness with steam showers, saunas and even cold plunges. In terms of color, our experts are loving warm tones like peach (think Peach Fuzz, Pantone's 2024 Color of the Year), as well as moody hues, like deep green and navy blue.

As usual, a number of these trends carry over from our 2023 trend predictions, like tile wall designs and nature-inspired elements — but we're seeing a ton of fresh ideas for the new year. No matter your design style, or how much space you're working with, you're sure to find a trend that'll inspire your powder room or bathroom makeover. Start scrolling!

14

Textured Stone Accents

"The trend of bold, veiny stone accents will stay strong next year. Often, we see people wanting to keep their millwork simple, with a feature element of colorful stone that adds visual texture to the space." — Philip Consalvo, principal at PJCArchitecture